THE QUAKE AT SEA.

Thrilling Experience of the Captain and Crew of a Schooner.

A Great Wave Like a Cliff Suddenly En-

PORTLAND, ME., Sept. 8.-Captain Clark H. Jewett, of the schooner George W. Cushing, thinks that he experienced on the Le Have banks the earthquake that prostrated Charleston. He says that the appearances at that time indicated a high pearances at that time indicated a high wind, but all was quiet, when suddenly, almost without warning, a black wall seemed to rise on the water and a mighty wave came rolling in that fairly lifted the schooner on its crest to a height that he never before knew a wave to reach. Then the schooner went down like going over a bank. Emerging from this wave, the schooner encountered a second wave, but nothing to be compared to the first. A terrible gale followed. A sailor says that he happened to look ahead just as the great wave came in sight. There was little wind, he says, and the tremendous mass of water ahead looked so like a great hill that he cried, "breakers dead ahead," the next moment the schooner striking against the seeming cliffs and was lifted to the top of the wave. Then he comprehended what had happened.

PHENOMENAL OCCURRENCE.

A Young Ludy Voiceless for Years Recovers Speech From Fright.

SAVANNAR, GA., Sept. 8 .- A strange inci dent of last week's earthquake shock is the recovery of the power of speech by Miss Mamie Martus, daughter of a retired officer of the regular army. At the close of the of the regular army. At the close of the war her father was put in charge of Forts Pulaski and Jackson, below this city. While at the former fort, the daughter, then a bright, intelligent child, had an attack of meningitis, which left her voiceless. The best medical skill was obtained, and the father took his afflicted child traveling, but nothing did her any good. She was dumb, but had all the other senses. During the excitement of the first earthquake shock last Tuesday night she in her fright attempted to call her brother. He was frightened himself when he heard her whisper his name. Since then she has gradually regained her voice, and now talks with perfect fluency. She says she was almost delirious with joy when she found that she could speak. Her voice was low and her throat sore for three days, and she has found trouble in finding words to express her thoughts. It was much like learning a new tongue, except that she knew the words, but had forgotten how to pronounce them.

The colonies might follow the example of Australia, and this would be the first great step in imperial federation. Mr. Murray then went on to give an account of the Antartic circle, which he said might be said to be covered with a white shroud of snow and ice, which had hitherto prevented any detailed examination of either the solid land or the ocean waters. Five expeditions, said Mr. Marray, had been dispatched from England and other countries to explore the Antartic Continent, but only that of Sir James Ross had been especially fitted for the work, and only he and Wilkes had got within the Antartic circle, and Ross has expressed the opinion that had it been possible to find a place of security upon the coast for the wintering, the interior might have been explored with sleds and the Southern Pole reached. The Antartic land had a great interest to us from the scientific questions connected with the ice cap and iceberg. The ice cap in the Southern Hemisphere might be several miles in thickness near the pole, and it was in connection with this that some of the most interesting scientific investigations were required to be made.

ROMANCE OF THE WAR,

The End of Which is Arrest for Embezzlement.

tolen Treasure Buried Near New Or leans-After Three Weeks of Digging the Soldier Who Says he Buried it is Arrested for Deception.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Sept. 10 .- Dr. George J. Adams, of Massachusetts, was arrested here to-day charged with embezzlement by a number of persons whom he defrauded out of money to search for a hidden treasure. Adams claims to have been a practicing physician in Massachusetts when the war broke out. He shouldered a musket and joined Company A, Seventeenth Massachusetts Volunteers. A portion of the command came with Butler to New Orleans. In a foraging expedition three soldiers of the regiment entered a dwelling on the Magnolia plantation, twenty miles above New Orleans, on the right bank of the river, and carried off some $30,000 in gold and silver—$1,800 of it in silver half dollars, $1,000 in dollars, and the remainder in gold. Being afraid to enter the city with so much money, on reaching a pecan grove about half a mile from the locks at the canal opposite Greenville, they selected a tree, prominent for its size and some peculiarities about its appearance which made it conspicuous. At the foot of this tree they buried the money and then took bearings, one of the party being a civil engineer. Each of the three men were furnished with a copy of this, and the marauders returned to New Orleans, intending to return after the war and recover the money. His two companions were killed and Adams was desperately wounded soon after. Adams was taken to a Northern hospital, and left it paralyzed and helpless. When he recovered the use of his limbs, only a month ago, he returned to New Orleans and at once began to search for his treasure. He found to his dismay that all the old pecan trees had been cut down and only the young ones left, and was consequently unable to recoznize the tree under which the treasure was buried. He devoted himself, however, for three weeks in delving for it. A few days ago he took several other parties into partnership with him, who advanced a better outfit for surveying the land and digging for the money; but as he has unearthed no treasure his partners had him arrested to-day. Massachusetts Volunteers. A portion of the command came with Butler to New

AN EXCEPTIONAL WOMAN.

Hiring Men to Assassinate a Man Persistently Admired Her.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10 .- A man named George Ehms yesterday made affidavit be-for a magistrate that he had been offered $50 by Mrs. Barbara Pressman, a widow, to murder a man named Frank Glassmire, to murder a man named Frank Glassmire, and that William Conrad and William Gardner had tried to persuade him to commit the deed. Mrs. Pressman and Conrad were arrested, and at a hearing to-day the former was held in $1,800 bail for conspiracy to murder, and Conrad in $800 as an accomplice. Ehms was placed under $1,000 bail as a witness. A warrant has been issued for Gardner's arrest. Ehms states that Mrs. Pressman desired to get rid of Glassmire because he forced his attentions upon her, and his persistent protestations of admiration were distasteful to her.

Mysterious Poisoning.

DECATUR, ILL., Sept 10 .- About fifty people were mysteriously poisoned at a country wedding about five miles west of here Wednesday night, and yesterday all the available physicians were hard at work attending the afflicted persons, who are retching and vomiting violently. Thomas retching and vomiting violently. Thomas W. Jacobs and Miss Alice Glasgow were married at the house of the bride's father. Supper was served, and included chicken salad and boiled chicken, and all ate heartily. An hour later the bride and groom were taken sick, manifesting symptoms of having been poisoned. Part of the company had left, but those remaining were taken sick, doubling up and vomiting. It has been learned that the chickens for the salad were cooked and salted in a big copper kettle. It is supposed the salt caused the metal to corrode and mix with the chicken. The people are all quite sick yet, but the doctors do not apprehend the fatal termination of any of the cases.

Austria Remonstrates. LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Berlin Tagblatt says that the Austrian Government has sent a diplomatic note to St. Petersburg remonstrating against the sending of any Russian official to Bulgaria. UNHAPPY LABRADOR.

eventy Thousand People Rendered Des titute by the Failure of the Fisheries. Halifax, N. S., Sept. 12.—Alfred B. Mor-rine, member of the New Foundland Legis. lature for Bonavista, now here, says: "The Labrador fisheries are an entire failure. At their best they can afford but a bare subsistence. Thirty thousand people go from sistence. Thirty thousand people go from New Foundland to Labrador for fish every year. This year they have not caught enough to pay the cost of transportation and supplies. At least 20,000 more people are dependent upon the success of the above-mentioned 30,000. The total failure of the shore fisheries this year renders 70,000 people destitute, only 20,000 of those depending upon them being prepared to stand the loss of a year's labor. The people have barely enough for present necessities, and no means of earning a dollar. The only relief to this picture is the fact that the potato crop, the only crop raised on the island, is turning out well, and will yield about a peck per head of population."

Mr. Morrine says: "This seems highly colored in view of the recent fabrications of starvation stories among the Labrador Esquimaux, but is the plain English of actual facts and inevitable consequences."

A Child's Miraculous Escape. CINCISNATI, Sept. 12.-Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Schultz, with their three-year-old son, of Madisonville, came in Saturday evening to see the Exposition, and passed the night at the residence of Geo. Greenwald, on West the residence of Geo. Greenwald, on West Fourth street. The family occupy the front rooms on the third floor. This morning the parents went down to breakfast leaving the boy asleep. The little one awoke and climbed out of the front window to the balcony. Then getting upon the iron railing the child lost his balance and fell to the stone pavement in front of the parlor windows, a distance of over thirty feet. A gentleman passing at the time saw the accident and alarmed the house. The child was taken in and the doctors summoned. They could find no injuries beyond a few scratches on the lower limbs. The escape was most miraculous, as the lower balcony is only about three feet wide, and the child could not have missed the iron railing more than an inch.

Dark and heavy tobaccos have suffered a more real decline, and we lower quotations 25@50c. for all grades from trash up to medium leaf, both extremes included. Green-river half-dried leaf has depressed, because its peculiar condition was not suited either to the English or domestic demand. Good and fair grades of both leading types have been scarce and firm. The cool, dry, breezy weather which has followed the damp, hot forcing weather of the preceding four or five weeks has been exactly suited to the wants of the plants at the stage of ripening and weighting, and has also favored the cutting, which is in progress in some sections. A very leafy crop is expected, and also a crop of considerably larger size than had been anticipated earlier. We quote 1885 tobaccos as follows, for full weight

The effect seemed entirely different from the other, the first of which appeared as if some heavy article had upset on the floor above. The second shock appeared rotary in motion, causing the larges ings in the town to rock. That of the 7th caused every building in the city to tremble, and was accompanied by a rumbling noise, similar to that caused by a heavy clap of thunder. The chimneys on several buildings were thrown off by the shock News from different portions of the county report the effect the same as felt at Henderson. In Union, the adjoining county, the

CURIOUS KENTUCKIANS.

Congressman Taulbee, of Kentucky, Tells How His Constituents Live.

Representative Taulbee, of Kentucky, comes from the mountain district of that State, and he lives in the region described in Charles Egbert Craddock's novels: There are 16,000 square miles of territory in his district. It comprises twenty counties and has one of the most curious populations in the world. I talked with Mr. Taulbee about it. Said he: "The district is very well described by Charles Egbert Craddock and the dialect is very much like that she puts in her stories, though I have never seen the language in in print before. The population is the product of the frontiersmen of several States. The first settlements in Kentucky were along the Ohio river and in the valleys of the Kentucky rivers. As the country became more settled civilization drove such of those of the early settlers who liked hunting and frontier life upward into the mountains. It was the same with Virginia and Tennessee. These huntsmen and frontiersmen married and intermarried and they have now become a separate and they have now become a separate people like unto no other in the world. They have been away from the civilization of the railroad, the telegraph and the daily newspaper, and they have grown into a language and customs of their own. They are a very patriotic people and during the late war, if you will look at the records in the War Department, you will find that my Congressional district furnished five Union regiments. They are very simple in regiments. They are very simple in their tastes and it does not take much in my country to make a man wealthy. If he has $2,500 he is considered well to do. If he has $10,000 he is

"Tell me how the people live."
"There are very few towns, about two only to the county, and these will average about three hundred inhabitants each.

"The ordinary house is a log one, consisting of two rooms, with boards shaved smooth with a draw knife, or split, nailed over the cracks between the logs. One of the rooms is used for a sleeping room and the other is the living room, dining room, kitchen and parlor, all in one, in which the family stay during the day-time. There is but one sleeping room for a whole family, and when they have guests visiting them these turn in and sleep in the same room. There are a number of beds used, and a stranger always gets the best bed. They are very modest with it all. They turn their backs if they are up, while the others of the family are undressing, or if they are in bed they will cover up their heads until you have completed your nightly toilet. It is the custom, you know, and I think our people are noted for their large proportion of virtuous women. Virtue is as much respected in the mountains as anywhere else in the world. These mountaineers are very hospitable. They entertain you and give you the best they have, and if you offer to pay they will refuse and say they do not make their money that way. The little money they do make comes from farming. You have heard of the feuds of these mountaineers. I have nearly a half score of murder cases to defend in one county on account of them. I know a place where count of them. I know a place where two families have been fighting each other for a generation, and where the different families of the two tribes never go out to work except in squads, and they always carry Winchester rifles with them."

"Is the country improving?"
"Well, yes, somewhat; but civilization comes slowly in the mountains.
We have not the best facilities for education, and, though the people want their children educated, they use native teachers and they do not push matters like you do in the North."—Washington Cor. Cleveland Leader.

Interesting Points Concerning His Discov-

Small-Pox Vaccination. old before he made vaccination known formance was very funny, but it illusto the world, the subject had attracted trates his intense energy and restlesshis attention when only a youthful ap- ness. You see, we had been up till prentice to a country surgeon. He was convinced that the current methods of treating cow-pox and small-pox were capable of improvement, and he set himself to study the nature of the dishimself to study the nature of the dis-ease. But for many years after his opinions were made known to the med-ical faculty they were contemptuously scouted. He had first of all to prove, contrary to the prevalent belief, that what was called cow-pox was not a certain preventive of small-pox. Then he had to trace out the nature of the difference in the diseases to which cows are subject, and to ascertain which of them possessed the protective virtue against small-pox. After repeated failures he made the grand discovery that it is "only in a certain condition of the pustule that the virus is capable of pustule that the virus is capable of imparting its protective power to the human constitution." It was on the 14th of May, 1799, that he first put his theory to the test by transferring cowpox by inoculation from one human being to the other. It was two years later, however, before his famous "Inquiry into the Causes and Effects of the Variolee Vaccine" was published. Henry Clive was the first London doctor to put the thing to the test, and he is to put the thing to the test, and he is credited with performing the first suc-cessful vaccination in London. Other cases followed, and Lady Frances Morgan (afterward Lady Ducie) was the first lady of rank to have a child vaccinated.—All the Year Round.

A ROMANTIC STORY.

Playing of Old Familiar Music Re-

ago, was a certain young Galician, a raw recruit, who became a prey to the most intense form of nostalgia after a very brief sojourn in that lovely, but feverish land, which has already devoured more than one hundred thousand soldier lives. The young recruit's condition became desperate - then changed suddenly into catalepsy. All efforts to revive him proved useless; finally the physicians attempted to sustain life by forcing open the soldier's mouth and pouring milk into his stom-ach. The effort was successful, and life was maintained week after week by artificial means. But still the trance could not be broken. Six months passed, and the soldier had neither spoken nor moved. His limbs, inert but flexible, preserved any position into which they were thrown—he would remain sitting if placed in a sitting posture, or even standing, if perfectly balanced upon his feet; but otherwise he continued lifeless as a statue. After the lapse of one whole year there was no change in his condition. Fifteen months passed—eighteen months —an uprecedented phenomenon! Then one of the attending physicians sent for a muneira (a popular stringed in-strument peculiar to Northern Spain) and ordered a fellow countryman of the patient to play some of the old mountain airs upon it. The effect of the music was like witchcraft; the fixed eyes brightened, the long torpid muscles of the face began to quiver with such a trembling as the dead might feel at the first great summons of the resurrection. Astonished, the physician bade the musician continue; while another compatriot took the sufferer's unresisting hand and talked to him in the dialect of his own mountain village. He neither moved nor spoke, but the tears began to stream from his eyes so profusely that, fearing the result of too much emotion, the experi-ment was stopped. Then two days later the muneira was again brought in and the signs of life increased with its playing; the face resumed its natural color, the gaze its intelligence, the brain its functions. And gradually after many days of this musical heal-ing, vital force returned and the soldier. ing, vital force returned and the soldier, one more well and strong, was able to leave the hospital forever. Needless to relate what a profound feeling this incident produced among the Spaniards of Havana—all of whom doubtless love their native land not less dearls. love their native land not less dearly than the simple soldier whose affection for it had so nearly condemned him to the grave, and who had been literally awakened from the death sleep by the voice of that land, speaking to him across the broad seas through the clumsy chords of a muneira. But these Spaniards have a charming and impulsive way of exhibiting sympathy. they do not merely utter words and extend hands. In this case they made the object of their interest a happy man-richer than most of his people at home, for he carries back with him to his mountain village the snug little sum of $8,000-quite a fortune for any Galacian peasant. Spite of revolutiontion, fever, bad government and financial loss, the bond that fastens Cuba to Spain will not be easily broken; it is a bond of flesh stronger than a tether of steel. Love is a better safeguard of the foreign interests of the mother country than are bayonets; and since the day when Spanish ladies cut their hair to weave it into the portrait of a patriot, the affection of the Spanish colonists for Spain has lost none of its

Just as we were going up the reporters all came after us. I would not stop to talk to the reporters. I never let them interview me, but Field stopped to talk with them. It was about 4:30 the next morning when I heard him in his room, I knew right away what was up. He had gotten up early to get the first copy of the paper to see what they said about things. Pretty soon I heard him go out in the small hall. It was not long after that till he was just raving. I made out from what he said that he had broken the key in the lock and could not open the door. from which there was a door into the he said that he had broken the key in the lock and could not open the door. He went back to his room and tried to ring the bell to communicate with the office, but they had just put in a newfangled call bell and he did not know how to work it. He tried it three or four times and then went back to the door, where he stood and called "Porter" and "Hall boy," and climbed up and looked over the transom. I saw I was not to get any more sleep, so I went out where he was. Well, do you know that man from 4:30 until you know that man from 4:30 until eight o'clock kept up an incessunt calling, mingled with attempts to make the bell ring, pounding on the door, and other noises to attract the attention of some one to release us. SAVE THE STRAW.

Its Great Value as a Fertilizing Material

All kinds of straw are of more value for fertilizing purposes than is generally supposed. The principal value is in the ash, which consists of potash, magnesia, soda, silica, phosphoric acid, lims, chlorine and sulphur. When allowed to decompose on the soil, the nitrogen which has been taken from the atmosphere is supposed to be re-tained, while in acting as a mulch, keeping the soil loose, and is in this way of especial value in tenacious soils. When burned, of course all the nitrogen is expelled and returned to the air, while by the process the carbon is converted into carbonic acid gas and be comes a part of the atmosphere. FOR THE CURE OF FEVER and ACUE Or CHILLS and FEVER, The proprietor of this celebrated medicina justly claims for it a superiority over all renedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT curo of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the pationt, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of KENT'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient. USE no other pill.
